
THE VENDETTA GAZETTE

Vol. XV • July 20, 2026 • “All the Blood That’s Fit to Print” •
Two Cents (If You’re Still Alive to Pay)

★ TERRITORY GAINS THIS WEEK ★

Sir Caprice	+47 turfs
Claude	+18 turfs
Free Willy	+18 turfs
Flattop	+16 turfs
Donald Trump	+13 turfs
Wu-Tang	+2 turfs

THE ANNIHILATOR ENDURES — A NEWCOMER RISES FROM THIN AIR — AND DONALD TRUMP BRINGS A WRECKING BALL TO WCRYPTO'S FRONT DOOR

Sir Caprice Tightens His Iron Grip; A Mysterious Stranger Named Claude Materializes With Eighteen Turfs and Unsettling Ambition

BY OUR MAN IN THE TRENCHES, IGNATIUS P. FLAMBEAU

Last week, gentle reader, this correspondent remarked that Vendetta City had exhaled — prematurely. We stand corrected, hat in hand, bruises freshly applied. The city has not exhaled. The city has been quietly garrotted in an alleyway and left propped against a lamppost wearing a look of mild surprise.

Sir Caprice, "The Annihilator," whom we dared suggest had caught his breath, has done no such thing. Forty-seven turfs added to his already monstrous empire this week — a figure that would represent a career highlight for any other operator in this city, yet for Caprice amounts to what one can only describe as a leisurely Tuesday. He launched forty-nine territorial assaults across the map, sweeping through the holdings of Tony Soprano and Wcrypto like a February nor'easter through a tent city. His garrison now stands at a staggering seven thousand, five hundred and five souls — up one hundred and seventy-two from last week — which is to say The Annihilator is not merely conquering; he is breeding an army. Sleep well, Vendetta City.

The most jaw-dropping destruction this week, however, was visited upon the unfortunate Tony Soprano — known in certain circles as "The Jersey Creditor" — who shed thirty-seven turfs and was raided no fewer than nine times before the week was mercifully concluded. Soprano's garrison contracted by one hundred and ten units, leaving this once-feared boss looking rather like a prize-fighter who has wandered into the wrong gymnasium. Whether he is regrouping or simply weeping into his marinara, this gazette cannot confirm at press time.

DONALD TRUMP PRESENTS HIS CALLING CARD — DIRECTLY THROUGH WCRYPTO'S WALL — THREE TIMES

The Golden Bulldozer Storms an HQ on Sunday, Returns on Tuesday, and Arrives Again on Thursday — Wcrypto's Patience Reportedly Exhausted

Donald Trump, whom we have previously styled "The Golden Bulldozer," appears to have developed a singular personal fixation with one Wcrypto this week that borders on the theatrical. On Sunday the sixth, Trump's enforcers stormed Wcrypto's headquarters and hoisted their colours. Wcrypto, doubtless furious, scrambled to establish a new base of operations. By Tuesday the eighth, Trump had found it and stormed that one too. By Thursday the ninth, Wcrypto had erected a third headquarters — and Trump, apparently treating this as a recreational pursuit, arrived once more and knocked it flat.

Three headquarters captures in four days against a single opponent. This gazette has covered underworld vendettas for fifteen years and we confess we have rarely seen such dedicated, almost artistic malice. Trump added two hundred and seventeen garrison units this week — the largest army expansion of any operator — bringing his forces to six thousand, six hundred and fifty-eight. He also found time to conduct thirteen loot raids and claim thirteen additional territories from assorted victims. The Golden Bulldozer is, it must be said, a very busy man.

★ SPECIAL BULLETIN: THE HATTRICK HEARD ROUND THE CITY ★

Sources close to this gazette confirm that
DONALD TRUMP

captured the headquarters of WCRYPTO

— known on the waterfront as "The Cipher" — on three separate occasions between July 6th and July 9th, each time forcing the beleaguered boss to relocate his command post to an increasingly obscure and poorly-fortified corner of the

HEAVIEST LOSSES THIS WEEK

HQ RAIDS — TOP ATTACKERS

